Details:
1. Rotation: Each of the 5 adult teams gets exactly 2 games of 25-30min.
2. Youth Addition: The youth gets two dedicated longer slots (45min) so they don't feel rushed, but only two slots.
3. The "Odd Team" Solution: With a 5 team bracket, someone is always on a break. This schedule staggers the games so no team plays three times in a row.
4. Efficiency: Using a running clock is mandatory here. When a buzzer sounds the next two teams should be at the gate and ready to hop on immediately. This keeps things flowing and fun.
5. Competition: We can opt to provide youth with some of our left over give-away items for participation. Adults could have top two teams named perhaps and given something, perhaps a funny trophy that we can work up using some older trophies upstairs that were not used for youth and re-make them in a funny manner as trophies for this?
